April 5, 2021, Wilmington, DE – Jewish Federation of Delaware has landed two First-Place winning entries in the Delaware Press Association’s 2021 Communications Contest.

The annual DPA contest, open to all professional communicators in Delaware and nearby out-of-state communities, encourages and rewards excellence in communication. Judged by out-of-state communications professionals to ensure impartiality, the contest provides an opportunity to compete in various print or electronic broadcasting fields. All DPA contest winners are honored at the DPA Annual Meeting and Contest Awards Banquet each spring.

The annual contest is two-tiered. The first tier of the contest is the statewide DPA competition. The second tier is the national competition, run by the National Federation of Press Women. All entries that receive a first place are eligible for entry into the national competition.

Federation received First-Place Winning Entries in the following categories:
