April 6, 2026, Wilmington, DE – Jewish Federation of Delaware has landed 12 winning entries, including two first-place awards, in Delaware Press Association’s 2026 Communications Contest.

The annual DPA contest is open to all professional communicators in Delaware and nearby out-of-state communities. Judged by out-of-state communications professionals to ensure impartiality, the contest provides an opportunity to compete in various print or electronic broadcasting fields. All DPA contest winners are honored at the DPA Annual Meeting and Contest Awards Banquet each spring.

The annual contest is two-tiered. The first tier of the contest is the statewide DPA competition. The second tier is the national competition, run by the National Federation of Press Women (NFPW). All DPA entries that receive first place are eligible for entry into the national competition.

Federation received award recognition in the following categories:

1st Place (2)	1. News Story 2. Specialty Articles/Education
2nd Place (3)	3. Specialty Articles/Religion 4. Advertising Campaign 5. PR Campaign/Report
3rd Place (5)	6. Specialty Articles/Food 7. Specialty Articles/Arts 8. Specialty Articles/Travel 9. Specialty Articles/Environmental 10. Single Photograph
HM (2)	11. Specialty Articles/Religion 12. Specialty Articles/History
